

REYNOLDS EXPOSED

Republican Candidate for Lieutenant Governor Designated as

A POLITICAL "FLOPPER"

By Thomas H. Greevy, Democratic Nominee—Penrose's Man Once Fought Gang as "Plunderers."

Assailing John M. Reynolds, the Penrose-Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, as a "flopper" from the Democratic party—a sort of Kekyll-Hyde political figure—Thomas H. Greevy, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, at a Democratic mass meeting in Philadelphia Tuesday night gave some interesting sidelights on Reynolds' record.

Greevy pointed out that although Reynolds is now sounding the praises of the Republican party, it wasn't long ago that he was leading this same party as a combination of "political plunderers." The Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor gave dates on which Reynolds voiced strong sentiments against the Republican party, and contrasted the expressions with more recent utterances of the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

The occasion was a mass meeting of Democrats. A brass band paraded the streets and collected the crowd. Senator Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for Governor, John G. Harman of Bloomsburg, and Harry Grim of Doylestown, brother of the gubernatorial candidate, were the other speakers. In the course of his speech Senator Grim declared that if he "had known that Berry intended to run on an independent ticket he would not have accepted the Democratic nomination at Allentown."

Greevy Quotes Reynolds

Mr. Greevy said in part: "You doubtless have noticed that John M. Reynolds, the Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor, has been working hard in this campaign to defend the tariff bill and the Republican party. He has given the Republicans credit for everything achieved in this country for a century or more. This is a much different doctrine than Mr. Reynolds preached a few years ago."

"Prior to 1896 Mr. Reynolds was a Democrat and an active one at that. In Democratic national and state conventions with him, and in both private and public life he denounced the Republican party. He occupied the office of Assistant Secretary of the Interior under President Cleveland during the latter's second term. I propose to show you that he at one time assailed the Republican party and charged it with being responsible for all the ills of the country, but today is telling the voters of Pennsylvania in effect that what he said before was untrue, and that it was the Democrats who should have been blamed."

Draws Deadly Parallels

"At Erie recently Mr. Reynolds said: 'It is only necessary for me to say that the history of this country is nothing more nor less than the history of Republican achievement.' In the campaign of 1880, when Garfield was the Republican Presidential nominee, here is what Reynolds said of the Republican party: 'People might as well remember the election day that the Republican ticket and the principles it represents are corruption and imperialism. When all the crimes of the Republican party against the principles of the people reach its culmination? When will they lay down their bloody, malicious and thieving hands which they have raised against the sovereignty of the free and independent states? Not until the people shall assert, through the peaceable power of the ballot that that party which now fills the nation's offices and lives only for plunder and strife, must die or an outraged people rise in revolution. In the face of the revolution who can degrade his manhood or smother his pride in Republican government and be numbered with the leaders of a party who sell their positions, their honor, and their influence in the interest of a faction whose only aim is to trample the principles of representative government under foot and inaugurate a system of tumult and anarchy.'"

"In Pittsburgh Congressman Reynolds made this statement: 'No matter what may be said concerning Pennsylvania's system of government, it stands the equal of the best of that of any other state in the union.'"

"Mr. Reynolds did not think of this in 1880. In the latter year he declared from the stump: 'Some Republicans would sooner have the government in the hands of thieves and underlings in their own party than the hands of honest men of the opposite party.'"

Contrasting Views of State Affairs

"Once more listen to the great orator which Reynolds now heaps upon the Republican party. At Titusville he declared: 'It may with confidence be asserted that under Republican rule legislative and executive departments have never failed to answer the public demand for such laws as are needed for the people's highest and best interests and which had the guarantee of being sustained by the force of public sentiment. Dibert, well known in Reading society, ended her life by hanging herself in the collar of her home, 424 Woodward Street, yesterday. The body was suspended by a clothes line from a water pipe. A step ladder nearby explained the method. The eyes were closed and her arms were folded, an unusual occurrence in violent deaths. She was melancholy on account of ill health.

She was an active member of the Women's Club of Reading and was identified with various charitable institutions. She was also one of the leaders in the Missionary Society of St. Paul's Reformed Church and took an active part in the sessions held here last week.—Philadelphia Press.

Mrs. Dibert was Miss Grace Newman, formerly of this place, and leaves the following brothers and sisters: Charles, Harry, Martin, John, Fred, and Misses May and Margaret Newman, all of Wilkesburg, and Mrs. W. W. McNamara of Altoona.

JOHN T. MATT

Sketch of Life of Democratic Candidate for Legislature.

John T. Matt, the Democratic candidate for the Legislature, was born in Piedmont, W. Va., December 22, 1860. In 1861 his parents moved to Cumberland where Mr. Matt received a good public school education and learned the trade of cigar maker. In 1877 he came to Everett where he worked at his trade. His employer closed out business and Mr. Matt found employment as best he could at all kinds of hard work, for which he makes no apology, for all labor is honorable. He carried the hod, dug out foundations, worked three years as a laborer while the Everett furnace was being constructed and in operation and upon its closing down went to his trade, established a cigar factory and sold his product at wholesale and retail. This business he carried on for seven years during which time he applied himself to books, thus securing a business education.

Having sold his cigar business he accepted the management of a large general store at Earlston, which position he has held for 14 years. In this position he comes in contact with farmers, laborers and persons of all classes, and he knows their needs, and if elected he will take care of their interests.

Mr. Matt is secretary of the council of the church with which he is affiliated and for years has been a teacher in the Sunday School.

His popularity at home is shown by the fact that he is the only Democrat ever elected Judge of Election in the borough of Everett.

He is the man to elect; Democrats, vote straight. He wears the collar of no boss and is free to act as his judgment directs him.

Still Improving

On Friday of last week a new letter and package mail box was installed at the Court House, a convenience highly appreciated by the county officers. Through the energy and progressiveness of Postmaster Lutz, free city delivery was established here in 1908. Since that time additional boxes have been erected from time to time, and today Bedford has the best mail facilities of any town of its size in the state. Among the private citizens who contributed largely to the establishment of the service was John Wy Boor who called upon practically all the business men of the town in the interest of the project.

John M. Reynolds' Record

Thomas H. Greevy, the able and eloquent Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, has presented the Republican party with a nose-peg of which the odors stifle the sense in the political record of John M. Reynolds, the Penrose nominee for the same office.

When a chronic seeker for office in the Democratic party Reynolds offended his political associates by the violence of his denunciations of a robber tariff, which was much more moderate than the Payne-Adair bill for which he gave his vote in Congress when a chronic office-seeker and office-holder in the Republican party. At the same time, his vituperations of distinguished Republican statesmen and patriots, which Mr. Greevy cites, caused greater disgust.

The record of Reynolds is more odorous than that of Tener, in that it is much longer and more variegated. His neighbors of the Republican County of Bedford have borne testimony to his political record by casting overwhelming majorities against him when a candidate for Congress, and they will be apt to repeat the rebuke next Tuesday. Tener and Reynolds are a fine pair for the people of Pennsylvania to "draw to," in the language of sporting circles.—Philadelphia Record.

Grim Stands the Test

More and more, as the day of election approaches, in comparing the relative fitness of three prominent candidates for Governor in Pennsylvania—Grim, Tener and Berry—steady-going, conservative citizens of whatever party who are in doubt what man to vote for in order to best advance the public interest are turning to Senator Grim.

He is the only candidate who under the searchlight of fierce partisan inquiry and rivalry has developed a weak spot. In all his private and public relations he stands clear of impeachment from any source. Those who know him best trust him most implicitly. He has the qualities, as shown by his long legislative record of steadiness, courage and persistency in right doing, so sorely needed in the management of state affairs.—Philadelphia Record.

Samuel Miller

Samuel Miller died at his home near Mann's Choice at 7:15 o'clock Wednesday evening, at the age of 75 years. The funeral will be held in the Christian Church in Milliken's Cove Saturday morning. Sketch next week.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

PASTOR RUSSELL'S WEEKLY SERMON

"The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord. Make straight in the desert a highway for our God. And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together. The voice said, proclaim, all flesh is grass, and the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it. Surely the people are grass." (Isaiah xl, 3-7).

London, October 30.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle today addressed an audience of nearly four thousand people from the above text. His hearers were of all classes and very intelligent appearing. He had closest attention. He said in part:

God has messages for those who have hearing ears at each great dispensational change in earth's affairs. These messages have generally been in the nature of forewarning of coming distress and the reasons therefor. Such a message was given to our first parents when they were expelled from Eden—accused would be the ground for their sakes. Thorns and thistles it would bring forth into them. In sweat of face they should eat bread thereof until they should return to the ground, from whence they came. Another great message went forth at the time of the flood; another before the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah; another at the close of the Jewish Age, when Jesus and his Apostles called attention to the prophecies which foretold the Divine rejection of the nation of Israel for a time and declared that all things written in the Law and the Prophets concerning them would have fulfillment, quoting the prophecy which declared that their house would be left desolate; that they would have neither prophet, nor vision, nor priest, nor epoch for many years, but that eventually God's favor would return to Israel—that he would gather them again and fulfill to them everlastingly the blessings promised both to Abraham and to his descendants—"the sure mercies of David."

A week ago we considered the prophetic message, "Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people, saith ye, God" (Isaiah xl, 1). We noted then that the due time has arrived for the fulfillment to Israel of this comforting message—that as a people the appointed time for the return of favor to them is accomplished because their two-fold disciplines for sin have been fulfilled. Thus our present day is clearly marked and the words of our text following imply that now is the time for a special message to all, in proportion as each may have the hearing ear.

It is the voice of God which calls now through various channels and agencies. It cries not from the "City Babylon the Great." It cries not from the citadel of Christendom; but from the wilderness, from those who are more or less separated; from those who have heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues" (Revelation xviii, 4).

Prepare the Lord's Way

The message of the hour to every hearing ear is, "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple" (Malachi iii, 1). For centuries you have been praying, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." Now your prayer is about to be answered, whether you prayed in sincerity or in hypocrisy. The glory of the Lord is about to be revealed. "All flesh shall see it together." It will not be revealed merely to one nation, nor merely to one holy class. His glory will be revealed in flaming fire—in judgments. All flesh shall see it—the rich and the poor, the learned and the ignorant, the holy and the unholy. But, as the Prophet Malachi declares, "Who shall abide the day of his coming, and who shall stand when he appeareth; for he is like fuller's soap (in its attack upon grease and dirt), and he is like a refiner's fire, as it melts and separates the dross of sin and iniquity (Malachi iii, 2).

The coming of a great earthly king to a city is the signal or a general cleaning up everywhere. And so the Lord declares that the message of his fast-approaching Kingdom should influence all who have the hearing ear to make preparation. To each nation it means, Set your house in order. An inspection is at hand. See that your laws are just and equitable and that they are administered justly. The same message comes to each self-governing city, and lastly, and most important of all, this message comes to each individual, and especially to all who have named the name of Christ. Or, as St. Peter declares, this inspection of the King of kings and Lord of lords must begin with the house of God (I Peter ii, 17). And if the inspection be so searching that it must begin with God's saints, what could we expect of it when it reaches those who are merely nominal Christians and then the world in general! Ah! we may expect just what the Bible advises us will come. "A time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation" (Daniel xii, 1). The message of this hour, dear friends, elsewhere stated to Holy Writ, is, "Seek meekness; seek righteousness. It may be that ye shall be hid in the day of the Lord's anger" (Zephaniah ii, 3).

Hidden Things to Be Revealed

The greatest Teacher the world has ever known, a Jew, eighteen centuries ago, declared prophetically of our day that every hidden thing shall be revealed (Matthew x, 26). We see his prophecy fulfilling. The secrets of nations are being exposed. Iniquity in its every form is being brought to light as never before. Iniquity in we see the great mountain (or nation) of Russia yielding to the demands of the people and granting them a measure of civil rights. There we see a practical illustration of the lifting up of the valleys and the bringing low of the mountains. In Great Britain we see another wonderful illustration of this principle; for here, more than in any other Kingdom of Europe, perhaps, the distance between the mountain tops of autocracy and the depths of social degradation, have been lessened, so that in Great Britain, the change demanded by the new Kingdom, Messiah's Kingdom, will be less than in many other countries. Here it has come gradually.

The Glory of the Lord Revealed

A well-known American authoress (Henry Ward Beecher's Sister) once wrote some words which seem prophetic:—

"I can see his coming judgments, as they circle all the earth. The signs and wonders promised, to precede a second birth; I read his righteous sentence, in the crumbling thrones of earth—Our King is marching on."

"The Gentile Times" are closing, for their kings have had their day; And with them sin and sorrow, will forever pass away; For the tribe of Judah's Lion, now comes to hold the sway—Our King is marching on.

"The seventh trump is sounding, and our King knows no defeat, He will sift out the hearts of men before his judgment-seat. O! be swift, my soul, to welcome him; be jubilant, my feet—Our King is marching on."

The exposure of the frailties of poor humanity—of the shams of society and of religion and of business and politics, all are constituting a great black background, against which the glories of the Lord are being revealed in striking contrast, as the critics of the world mercilessly hew to the line and lay bare the cankers in politics and pollutions of our social system. The effect of this primarily will be the arousing of the masses against the classes of privilege. Their human idols and ideals will crumble. Their confidence in men will melt. They will give vent to what they will esteem to be a righteous indignation. And so doing they will forget that the masses are equally as unrighteous, unjust, as the more favored classes, in proportion to their opportunities. Wherein they judge others they should also condemn themselves, and the result should be that mercy which the Lord enjoins.

Only those who forgive others their trespasses—who thus manifest a spirit of love and sympathy—need expect to have mercy, consideration, shown them by the new King. He will surely punish injustice and unrighteousness of word and deed and thought in the poor as in the rich, in the ignorant as in the learned, in the outwardly religious as in the outwardly profane. The message of the hour to Christian, Jew and Gentile is what it was eighteen centuries ago, "Repent ye, for the Kingdom of heaven is at hand." Repent and reform respecting public injustices, no matter how long standing, no matter by whom practised and approved. Repent of and reform from and disown the rank errors to be found in so many church creeds, dishonoring our Creator. Let us be honest in our professions of faith. Repent as respects wrong practices which have crept into our churches, quite out of harmony with the teachings of Jesus and the Apostles.

Let us return to the simplicity of the early church. Let us repent of the God-dishonoring statements we have put forth in the name of God and religion and the Bible, by which we palmed off bad tidings of great misery, as instead of the true Gospel of Good Tidings of Great Joy which shall be unto all people. Let us repent of and abandon the rascaldom and misrepresentations so common in business life—the subversion of the Truth to money. Let us repent of and put away the dishonesty of the Stock Exchange, through which weak and ignorant financial speculators are deceived and impoverished. Let us repent of the iniquities which abound in nearly every home, even those where Christ is claimed to be the Head—Injustices of husbands toward wives and of wives toward husbands, the strong-minded toward the weaker-minded—failing to observe the Golden Rule. Let us repent of the injustices practiced by parents upon children, in violation of the same Golden Rule. Let us repent of the dishonor and disobedience to parents practiced by many children. Let us repent of the selfish ambitions of our own hearts and let us pray earnestly to the Lord, "Create within me a clean heart, O Lord, and renew a right spirit within me." "Cleanse thou me from secret faults; keep back the servant also from presumptuous sins" (Psalm li, 10; xix, 12, 13).

The Time is at Hand

True, these and similar exhortations have been made by the Lord's people from time immemorial. And yet the present proclamation is different from all others in that it proclaims, "The time is at hand!" "The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand!" Not an earthly kingdom with an earthly king; not a papal kingdom exhorting the world to righteousness in the name of the Lord! Not a Protestant ecclesiastical empire exhorting to godliness! But the real Kingdom of God's dear Son so long promised, so long prayed for, is at hand! It will be a Spiritual Empire, replacing and displacing Satan's empire in the world and using as its earthly agency Israel restored to Divine favor. Men will not say, Lo, here, or, lo, there, but, Behold, the Kingdom of God will be in the midst of mankind—everywhere present, empowered to bless and empowered to punish. The Great Prince of Light, the King in his glory, with the elect as his Bride on the heavenly, spiritual, invisible plane, will soon take the sceptre of earth. His great power and the glorious majesty of his righteous rule will be manifest in the judgments which will prevail—rewards and punishments. "When the judgments of the Lord are abroad in the earth, the inhabitants of the world shall learn righteousness" (Isaiah xvi, 9).

WEBSTER GRIM'S SPLENDID RECORD

Life of Achievement in Every Line of Endeavor Touched.

SKETCHES OF OTHER NOMINEES

Eight Years' Service in the Senate
Radiant in Works For Righteousness in Legislation and Reform in Government.

Webster Grim was born at Revere, Bucks county, Aug. 11, 1866, and is a son of Dr. George W. Grim, who was a prominent physician of that locality. He was brought up with the family upon the farm. In 1887 he was graduated with honors at the Keystone Normal school and delivered the political oration. He then entered upon the study of the law and was admitted to the bar in September, 1889, and has practiced his profession at Doylestown since that time. Although his county (Bucks) is largely Republican, such is his standing among those who know him that he has twice been elected to the state senate by good majorities. He was unanimously nominated by the Democratic state convention of 1903 as his candidate for superior court judge.

Webster Grim assumed a leading position among the senators from the first. He entered upon the service at the opening of the session of 1903 and was assigned to the committee on judiciary general, to which four-fifths of all legislation is committed for examination. At his second session he was unanimously chosen chairman of the Democratic joint caucus, thus becoming the leader of the minority upon the floor of the senate.

During his first session Senator Grim procured the passage of his automobile law. This was an entirely new subject for legislation, and a high order of ability was required to draw a constitutional bill which would conserve the interests of the state and protect those of the motorists. Subsequently it was attacked in the courts and its constitutionality was affirmed. During that session he attacked the measure known as the "press muzzle," making a speech against it that commanded the attention of the press of the state and compelled the bosses to make such amendments as materially modified its iniquities. He was also the foe of all measures multiplying offices, increasing salaries, pensioning judges, appropriations of water rights and all other forms of jobbery.

During the session of 1905 Senator Grim was equally alert in the interest of the people. The same bills for the increase of the number of offices, the increase in the volume of salaries, the pensioning of judges and the creation of corporations to steal water powers and usurp utilities were brought forward, and as the leader of the minority Senator Grim fought them with relentless energy and vigilance. That was the session made famous by the establishment of the "House of Mirth" in the Boas mansion, Harrisburg, and under pressure of greed and graft, iniquity was rampant in the capital. While Senator Grim and his minority colleagues in the senate were not able to stem the tide of vice they did succeed in exposing it so as to compel the political revolution that followed.

The acts of the special session of 1906 are fresh in the minds of the people, and Senator Grim's active work in shaping the legislation of that session need not be commented upon. Suffice it to say that practically every measure then enacted had been introduced during the previous session by the Democratic minority under Senator Grim's caucus direction. He was one of the prime movers in the insurance investigation disclosing the graft in that department.

With the session of 1907 Senator Grim entered upon his second senatorial term. He at once assumed a foremost place among the minority senators and led in the debates relating to the investigation of the capitol graft, speaking frequently and forcefully in favor of a thorough probing. He supported the soldiers' pension bill, introduced a bill to regulate telephone charges and led the fight in behalf of the farmers requiring milk bottles to be stamped. He introduced an important amendment to the election laws, opposed the graft producing measure providing for a geological survey, and initiated the plan to have additional members of the commerce commission elected instead of appointed. He also vigorously supported the proposition to have United States senators elected by popular vote.

During that session Senator Grim made an effort to have executive salaries reduced, to create a state civil service, to repeal the bill exempting railroads from liability for accidents to employees, to give trolley companies the right of eminent domain, to establish the referendum, to prevent unfair discrimination of railroad companies and other corporations. He fought the bills for the inspection of tenements, Fahey's bill for the government of street railways, the district attorney's fee bill, and the measure providing for eminent domain for electric light companies. He introduced a resolution to force action on the bill defining trusts and defeated the bill for the reorganization of the banking department that created a lot of new offices.

The session of 1907 was a strenuous and significant one. The Penrose machine had about recovered from the fright caused by the political revolution of 1905, and was there with bills. But the minority led by Senator Grim was equally alert and determined. All sorts of graft bills were introduced, and the sturdy Democrats fought them vigorously. During that session Senator Grim voted for the Columbus Day bill, for civil service in cities of the second class, for the taxation of express companies, for payment of National Guardsmen for time at drill, for increasing the pay for soldiers' headstones, for a state fair appropriation, providing for the health and safety of miners, to prevent infections, authorizing trolley roads to carry freight and for all the department pure food laws. He supported the bill providing for the nomination of candidates for United States senator by popular vote, that protecting minor children, compelling hospitals to furnish sick and injured firemen with beds, regulating the sale of cocaine, all department health bills, the soldiers' pension bill, the rights of labor unions and the school code. In fact he was the champion on the floor of these measures, and particularly of the employers' liability act of June 10, 1907.

Senator Grim was equally alert against vicious legislation. He was against the bill for the inspection of weights and measures, that increasing the salary of governor, against benevolence of soda, against assistant district attorneys in certain counties, against the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh boulevard, against the increase of the salaries of judges, against the resolution to place the Quay statue in the capitol corridor, against additional stenographers in departments, against increasing the salary of the auditor general, against additional messengers, against the pawnbrokers' bill, against the bill allowing unbelievers to testify, and against all the machine measures to grab franchises and control utilities.

Mr. Grim has always taken a lively interest in the affairs of the community and has probably made himself as useful as any person in it. For twelve years he was the superintendent of the Reformed Sunday school, during which time the school was completely reorganized, departments established and the graded course of instruction and examination introduced by him was perfected. Since his resignation he has served continuously as advising superintendent and teacher of the advanced class in the senior grade. He conducted the first annual institute in the county. He has taken active part in a number of Sunday school conventions, usually conducting the song service, until he was relieved at his own request. He is an active member of Salem Reformed church, Doylestown; was the secretary of the building committee of the new church and organ committee, and has contributed much to the material success of the church. He has for years regularly presided at the organ every Sunday. He is a successful choir leader, as the renditions from time to time attest.

THOMAS H. GREEVY

Democratic Nominee For Lieutenant Governor.

Thomas H. Greevy, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, was born April 4, 1850. He was reared in Williamsport, Pa., where his father was employed in a mercantile house. He received his education in the public schools and the commercial college of that city. In 1871 he entered the law office of Samuel J. Morrison, Williamsport, as a student at law. In 1873 he removed to Altoona, where he completed his studies and was admitted to the Blair county bar in 1874, soon after which he became a partner of his preceptor in the practice of his profession.

In 1877 Mr. Greevy was elected recorder of the city of Altoona. His election was subsequently contested and pending the contest he was summoned to Bedford to testify as a character witness in a pending trial. According to custom he was admitted to the Bedford bar and upon his return home criticized the action of the court in a newspaper of which he was part owner. In resentment of this Judge Hall had a rule issued summoning him "to show cause why he should not be disbarred for contempt." This case attracted state-wide attention and after a hearing the rule was dismissed. But it brought about the passage of the act of assembly which gives lawyers, when disbarred, the right of appeal to the supreme court.

Mr. Greevy has always taken an active part in politics, and has frequently represented his county in state conventions. He held the office of recorder for five years and was tendered a unanimous renomination but declined. In 1888 he was delegate to the national convention at St. Louis which nominated Cleveland. He was that year the nominee of his party for congress in the 20th district which gave an average majority of 6500. His opponent, Hon. Edward Scull, of Somerset county, had 4200 majority. In 1890 he was again nominated for congress in the 20th district and was defeated by 526 votes. In 1902 he was elected city solicitor of Altoona and filled the office until 1905. In 1904 he was nominated as the Democratic candidate for state senator against J. C. Stinemman and ran several thousand votes ahead of his ticket. All these nominations were literally forced upon him.

Mr. Greevy has an extensive law practice in Blair county, principally in the civil courts, although he has been engaged on one side of the other of every important criminal case in the county for many years. He is connected with several benevolent and fraternal organizations and takes an

From early manhood Mr. Greevy has taken great interest in the improvement of labor conditions and at the outset was among the most active participants in the organization of labor. When a mere boy he joined a labor union in Williamsport and subsequently widened his activities and assisted in the organization of the miners' unions in the anthracite coal regions. He has been the willing and capable counsel of labor men and strike leaders in nearly every case in which they have been brought into court and stands as among the most earnest champions of labor in the country.

JAMES I. BLAKESLEE

Democratic Candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs.

Hon. James I. Blakeslee, Democratic nominee for secretary of internal affairs, was born at Mauch Chunk, Pa., Dec. 17, 1870. He was educated in the public schools and subsequently took special courses at the Bethlehem Preparatory, the Cheltenham Military Academy and the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa.

Mr. Blakeslee entered the railroad service early in life and served in various capacities, from brakeman up, with the Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania companies. On the breaking out of the Spanish-American war he entered the volunteer service of the United States army as second lieutenant of a company, Eighth regiment of Pennsylvania.

In 1905 Mr. Blakeslee was elected chairman of the Democratic committee of Carbon county and has been annually re-elected since. In 1906 he was a member of the Democratic state executive committee. He is a splendid organizer and has effected a superb organization of the Democratic forces of his county.

Mr. Blakeslee is a successful business man and since 1899 has been successfully operating the Lehigh Valley Electric Light and Power station at Lehigh, where he resides, as lessee and part owner. He has developed the property into one of the most complete electric properties in the state.

Mr. Blakeslee was elected a representative in the legislature for Carbon county in 1906 and served during the session of 1907. He was a vigilant and militant Democrat in the body and a terror to the Republican machine. His great delight was to puncture the machine tire whenever the managers imagined things were running smoothly.

He is thoroughly informed on corporation law and methods and if he is elected secretary of internal affairs the corporations will have to obey the law no matter how rich and powerful they happen to be.

THE LESSON OF THE AUTUMN

By Kate Masterson

The Autumn, esteemed by poets, artists and nature-lovers as the earth's most beautiful season, does not carry its appeal to every heart.

There is a sadness in the Summer's passing, to all who are not in life's happiest favor. The nearness of the year's end impresses itself on those who may be ill or old or who have lost some near and dear friend.

There is a deep reproach in the golden harvest month to all who have not garnered the grain and tilled the soil, cared for their fields that maybe confront them now barren and stony when the earth is giving forth its richest returns.

The seasons all bring their disciplines to those who neglect their opportunities or who sit with folded hands during the times when the seed must be sown and the plans made for the Autumn's coming, which season always seems more like the year's real beginning than the Mid-winter festival, which the calendar marks as New Year's Day.

So those of us who fail to enjoy the October glow and who marvel at others who can gaze out upon the falling leaves and chilly twilights can take another lesson to our hearts that it is only because we have not earned the right to hear that approving voice that never fails to let us know when we have done well with the task before us.

Unquiet souls often are oppressed by the simple peace that seems to pervade some neighbor's life, the smile he can give the passer-by, the joy that seems to dwell about his home. Such wearied seekers after a happiness that eludes them, often murmur of the "peasant natures" that are content with small things, the toil of fields, the evening meal and the night's rest.

But happiness comes to the heart of prince and peasant alike—a gift from God—a reward for the simple virtues that, after all, sum up the whole of the story that we all would seek to know, groping blindly among the isms and the mysteries when it lies plain before us if we would but teach our eyes to see it.

There is a reason for our neighbor's peace with life's problem—his health, his happy mood even in trying circumstances, the esteem in which he is held by those about him.

If his gladness distresses us with its apparent emptiness, when maybe his position in the world is a poor one, his clothing not up-to-date, his friends uninteresting, to our way of thinking, he yet holds in his heart the jewel of great price that many of might and importance and great wealth seek the world over in vain.

When this Fall sadness oppresses us it is not always fair to lay the blame for our conditions on Fate. Even illness is often sent us as a severe rebuke for our persistence in ignoring laws of health that have prevailed since the world was young.

Losses may have marked our ventures, love may have passed us by and left us sighing, but there is an inexorable justice about the way in which these hard knocks are meted out, although at the time we are undergoing the rod we may seem like the veriest martyrs to our friends and even to ourselves.

For few of us take time to think: Ambition has us whipped up to a pace that is all but impossible; the desire to be among those in the first of the van in city or village; for the frenzy to lead is as strong in every small community as among the villas of Newport.

We women are the victims of many weird and nerve-racking ideas that destroy health and peace of mind. A doctor told the writer not long ago that the sanitariums and private hospitals, the asylums even are filling up nowadays from women who poison themselves with hair coloring fluids of injurious ingredients and starve themselves into nervous diseases in their efforts to reduce flesh to a certain figure.

Warned time and again of the evils they are inviting they persevere in their course of wanton health destruction and spend years trying to counteract the effects of their wilful persistence in the use of these drugs and diets that wreck their lives and leave their families desolate, or else the patient victims of an unhappy groaning invalid who looks at life through the spectacles of the pessimist and scowls at the sound of happy laughter or the joyous expression of youthful gladness.

Living seems complicated to many of us because we confuse our own personal ends and ambitions with the simple program that must dominate the rightly lived life, which means happiness.

The performance of the task that confronts us, the attitude of thankfulness for the blessings we enjoy, the rules of courtesy, restraint and kindness that help to make up a day of peace for those with whom we come in contact—these are the small lines to which we can narrow down the tremendous net in which we now tangle ourselves seeking the light.

Unselfishness is the powerful lever that will move our troubled individual lives from the rocks of indecision, failure and perversity to the clear seas, with friendly breezes to guide us and a star to help us steer for the right channels.

Persevere and hope—you who look from the west windows at the reddening sunsets of these Autumn days. Nature that seems to be hurrying by you, leaving you hurt and bruised by the roadside, is the kindest of mothers.

The year may be nearing its close, but there is plenty of time for you to earn your right to happiness—that right, which despite many of our latter day philosophers, must be earned like all good things.

What is your heart's desire? What joy or peace eludes you? What sorrow holds you down? What illness maybe chains you mourning your lost opportunities?

Seek deep into your heart—pierce the ego, suffering thought it may be and as you shrink from the sound of laughter or hide your eyes from the day's new birth, question if all this present woe that possesses you has not been largely of your own inviting.

The chastisement may be a friendly warning that you must start anew, shaking off the binding circumstance; waking perhaps from a moral lethargy which keeps you blind to the truth of things.

Life is worth the living, although you may not now think so. It holds its wonderful promise, its hope, its joy for all of us.

Is it health you seek? Look into those books we all keep and see if you cannot find the secret key to this prize that we all treasure. Some of the simplest rules of corrective living may banish the ogre that now commands you.

Better breathing, exercising, bathing and thinking; simpler or more regular eating and sleeping—these are the ways to good health, refreshing sleep, quiet nerves and the ability to help others on the same road.

It all may mean the sacrifice of what you now deem a pleasure, but this way alone lies your salvation. Do not wait, defer or wrestle with your indecision. Mother Nature chides and warns before she sometimes sends heavy-handed punishments.

Is love the star you seek? Go back into the months and the years maybe and find where you have been lacking in the loyalty and faith and the cheerful heart that invites and holds love triumphantly—while great beauties gaze in wonder at the miracle of the plain woman who rules her husband's heart and home.

If love evades you or has sought you but to leave you poisoning life's wine with bitter tears, seek out the cause in your own heart and if it be not too late make the hearth glow again, kindle the logs and set the light in the window.

Is it success you sigh for? Is it a worthy success that will mean something more than a little cheap personal show and gaudy strutting before the world?

Begin again. Tear down your shaky structures and build anew. Then set out straight and true, with clear eyes on the horizon for squalls and storms, with compass set and lanterns glowing.

Let the Autumn in its message bring you this word of hope and good cheer on the new way you set out upon, strong in your purpose, true in your course for the port of happiness.

Dyspepsia is America's curse. Burdock Blood Bitters conquers dyspepsia every time. It drives out impurities, tones the stomach, restores perfect digestion, normal weight, and good health.

BOTH SPEEDY AND EFFECTIVE

This indicates the action of Foley Kidney Pills as Dr. Parsons, Battle Creek, Mich., illustrates. "I have been afflicted with a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble for which I found no relief until I used Foley Kidney Pills. These cured me entirely of all my ailments. I was troubled with backaches and severe shooting pains with annoying urinary irregularities. The steady use of Foley Kidney Pills rid me entirely of all my former troubles. They have my highest recommendation." Ed. D. Heckerman.

Changes in American Names

If your name should happen to be Rochambeau, it would doubtless, though ugly and unhistorical, be more convenient to be known, in an Anglo-Saxon commercial community, as Rockembaugh. Even so the Tagliaterras become Tollivers, and the mediaeval St. Johns and St. Clairs, with their hagiological associations, turn into stenographic and unpicturesque Sijohns and Sinciairs. Less noticed, on the other hand, than these familiar examples, but quite as significant, is the process of rehabilitation of names that takes place whenever people better themselves. A few Americans whose grandfathers were content to be Maginalls, McGowan and Macomber are beginning, one observes, occasionally to be Mac Innes, and Mac Owen, and Mac Omer. And quite legitimate and very interesting is this return to the old Celtic usage. He should not be surprised to find well-to-do Rices, of Welsh descent, going back to Ap Rhys.—From The Point of View, in the November Scribner.

NATIONAL PROSPECTS

The Democratic party is presenting to the voters of many states this year as candidates for Governor a group of men of ability and political purity as well as personal integrity. In these times when trusts, licensed by a tariff that is reaching every kitchen, pantry and parlor, is increasing the cost of living and making heavier the burden of the working men of our nation, the Democratic party has acted wisely. With men like Dix in New York, Wilson in New Jersey, Harmon in Ohio, Foss in Massachusetts and Grim in Pennsylvania the party deserves to win.

"God give us men! A time like this demands

Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men who possess opinions and a will;

Men who have honor, and who will not lie;

Men who can stand before a demagogue

And scorn his treacherous flatteries without winking,

Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog

In public duty and in private thinking!—Holland."

Too long and too patiently have the people of the nation, and of the State of Pennsylvania in particular submitted to systematic plundering. There is an awakening on foot and the hosts are flocking to the Democratic party, simply because its principles are right and it has placed in nomination men worthy of support—men above reproach

WHO'LL BE JUDGE?

In case Bedford County has a population of 40,000 we will be entitled to a separate judicial district, and there is considerable speculation as to who shall be appointed Judge by the Governor to be elected next Tuesday.

In case of Tener's election it is thought the appointment lies between Mr. Haderman and Mr. Jordan. In case of the election of Mr. Berry it is conceded the only logical appointment is that of Mr. Horn. A little reflection is all that is necessary to reach this conclusion. Mr. Horn is the leader of the Berry forces in this county and is the candidate's chief exponent. Then, too, he conducted the campaign for Congress for W. W. Bailey, editor of the Johnstown Democrat, a couple years ago. Mr. Bailey is one of Mr. Berry's ardent supporters, and being under obligations to Mr. Horn for his work in that Congressional campaign which proved beneficial to the candidacy of John M. Reynolds, the Republican nominee, he would naturally use his influence for Mr. Horn with the newly installed Governor. Even if Mr. Reynolds should slip in as Lieutenant Governor under Berry he could not oppose the appointment of Mr. Horn unless he would repeat history. He has, however, shown himself to be capable of breaking "political promises and personal pledges" and as a Congressman has been designated as "absolutely colorless."

VOTE FOR GRIM

Webster Grim is admitted by even his most strenuous opponents to be a man of good character, who has a clean record in the State Senate and who in the conduct of the present campaign has more nearly than any of the other candidates for the Governorship revealed a grasp of the pending state issues and a comprehension of the constructive policies which should characterize a progressive state administration. A vote for Grim is the only logical course.

A REPETITION

At the election next Tuesday John M. Reynolds, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, will again lose both wards of Bedford and Bedford County, all of which are Republican.

One of the most amusing things since Bolger's banquet is the laudation of the present tariff by John M. Reynolds, once a rampant free-trader. If Barnum were yet alive he would make it interesting for Mr. Reynolds, for an acrobat of his calibre would never be allowed to serve as Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania.

According to last week's issue of the Inquirer Mr. Thomas C. Bradley, the Republican candidate for the Legislature, "deserves the votes and support of the Republican voters of Bedford County"—and yet the Inquirer has expressed itself in favor of prohibition. Wonders never cease.

It is a strange time for any Democrat to vote against his party ticket when Democracy is winning victories from Maine to California. A vote for Berry is a half vote for Tener.

We repeat the question: "If every town in the U. S. the size of Bedford should get an $80,000 Federal building, what would it cost the government?"

Let no Democrat throw his vote away. Grim is the Democratic candidate for Governor and he is clean. A vote for Berry is a half vote for Tener.

record of Republican achievement as written upon the statute books of the state is the best proof of this fact, putting to shame those men who assert that the government of our state is not exercised in the interest of the public weal.

"Just before deserting the Democratic party Mr. Reynolds held this opinion of the Republican party: 'The corrupt administration of the state government and the debauchery of the legislature were fostered and protected by the Republican party for a period of ten years. Prior to their coming into power in Pennsylvania no such thing was dreamed of, but their strides in the path of ruin and shame to the state gave warning to the people.'

"It is quite different to what he is preaching now.

"Mr. Reynolds has developed suddenly a great love for the soldiers who fought through the Civil War to protect the nation.

"Mr. Reynolds did not express the same love for the old soldiers when he was Assistant Secretary of the Interior and was in position to aid them. Reynolds, as head of the bureau of pensions in Cleveland's last term, turned down 8,500 of the 9,000 appeals taken from claims originally rejected. If he had any love for the old soldier why did he not show it then?"

Then, Mr. Greevy gave the "office-hold and office-seeking record" of Reynolds:

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Look, and See

In hush of night, look!
And see:
The light shed by the moon
From star-set sky
Upon the lake;
And see each beam-kissed ripple shine
Like scattered gold
Upon the lake

In time of doubt, look!
And see:
The love shed, like the moon,
From God on high
Upon some heart;
And see each faith-filled action shine
Like beacons bold
Set for your heart.

THE STAND-PATTERS

No Republican Congressional Candidate Favors the President's Idea.

[From the Philadelphia Record.]
There are a good many members of the Union League, the Manufacturers' club and the Patriotic society whose keen sense of the ridiculous cannot but be quickened when contemplating the attitude of the Penrose machine in Pennsylvania toward the Republican party at large and toward the Republican administration of President Taft.

While the president in letters and speeches, is proclaiming the purpose to revise the tariff one schedule at a time, so as to reduce "exorbitant and unreasonable profits" not a candidate of the Penrose machine for congress can be heard making a favorable response to his plan. Not a Republican candidate in Pennsylvania will give his assent to putting the barbarous duties of 100 per cent on the woolen clothing of the people first in the door under the proposed process of tariff revision.

Neither Senator Penrose nor Senator Oliver nor any Republican candidate for congress in this state will agree to subject the steel schedule first to this mill, with the view of reducing the prohibitory duty on building materials of steel to its former place in the tariff. Why, if Senator Penrose were asked, he would not consent to the slightest reduction of his favorite protective duties on umbrella sticks and Myroholan plum trees!

BERRY'S DUPLICITY IS PROVED

Citizen Who Heard Pledge to Support Grim Swears to Fact.

SECURITIES OF WILD CAT TYPE

His Varied and Various Stories as to the Uses to Which He Put Money Borrowed From Colonel Guffey Also Disproved.

William H. Berry will never be governor of Pennsylvania, but can easily prove a claim to be the champion prevaricator in the public life of the country. Mr. Berry never hesitates in making a statement on account of the fact that it is not true. If it suits his purpose and he thinks he can fool the people, he lets it go anyway.

After the nomination of Webster Grim for governor by the Allentown convention Mr. Berry met his recent antagonist in the corridor of the Hotel Allen, congratulated him upon his nomination and pledged his support for election. His convention manager, Eugene C. Bonniwell, had previously moved to make the nomination unanimous, and the hopeful Democrats were in a happy frame of mind with this assurance of harmony.

But it didn't last long. That incurable microbe of ambition soon got to work in Berry's system and he began working for a nomination on an independent ticket of some sort, it didn't make much difference to him what kind. Then he publicly denied that he had promised to vote for Grim, though half a dozen reputable men heard him do so.

Among them was S. Miley Miller, of Gettysburg, chairman of the Democratic county committee of Adams county, who stood within a few feet of Berry and Grim when they met. Mr. Berry said: "I congratulate you on your nomination and will do all for your election I can." This statement of fact is supported by the following affidavit made by Mr. Miller:

"Adams County, Pa., Gettysburg, ss. 'Before me personally came S. Miley Miller, who, after being duly sworn, according to law, depose and say: That he is a resident of Gettysburg, Adams county, and chairman of the Democratic county committee of Adams county, which position he has held for the last six years in succession. That I was present at the Allentown convention, and am personally acquainted with Hon. Webster Grim and Hon. W. H. Berry. That after the convention adjourned I was in the retunda of the Allen House, standing close to Senator Grim. Mr. Berry approached Mr. Grim, took his hand, congratulated him on his nomination and assured him of his support at the election and made use of the following language substantially: 'Mr. Grim or Senator Grim, I congratulate you on your nomination and will do all for your election I can.'"

"Further deponent sayeth not. "Sworn and subscribed before me, this 26th day of October, 1910.

"JACOB A. APLER, Recorder of Deeds."

(Seal)

Mr. Berry is equally careless of his reputation for veracity in accounting for the money he borrowed on bogus securities from Colonel J. M. Guffey. He has given several stories in relation to that matter, each differing widely from the other. At first he said he used the money to finance the capitol graft investigation. Now as a matter of fact, he didn't spend any money on the capitol graft investigation, but when chided for tardiness in pressing the investigation, complained that he had no funds available for that purpose and that the Republican auditor general and governor would not appropriate any.

Thereupon two gentlemen of ample means, residents of Harrisburg, offered him all the money needed for the purpose on the chance that the legislature would reimburse them, but he never called for the money. Other reasons that he has given for borrowing from Colonel Guffey are equally false. Among them was a statement that he used the amount to guard his person from threatened attacks of emissaries of the Republican machine who had been employed to murder him. It would be impossible to conceive of anything more absurd than this. The truth is that he borrowed the money to invest in an enterprise which turned out badly, as anyone with a modicum of judgment could have told him in advance it would.

In Pottsville, the other day, Mr. Berry said that Colonel Guffey was amply secured for the loan. He was secured by shares in the Berry Engineering company, which is now in the hands of a receiver and probably not worth a penny on the dollar. At any rate the amount of it which Berry had assured Guffey was ample security for $15,000, was sold by the bank which held it for $700, notwithstanding the fact that on the morning of the sale Mr. Berry publicly announced that it would be redeemed within two weeks.

That was eight weeks ago, and it has not been redeemed yet. These are only a few of the falsehoods which Berry has put into circulation since the opening of his campaign of false pretenses.

You say you have no one depending upon you. Are you certain you may never have? When the tug comes, and you see the saving power of Life Insurance, maybe you can't get it—disease strikes quickly. Or you may have advanced in age to the point where the cost is high—a man pays for his gray hairs.

Hissong, late of Bedford, has built a fine house and store-room in the suburbs and is now running a grocery and meat market and is meeting with success.

FOR NOVEMBER

Copyright 1910 by C. H. REITH

JUST A MINUTE—

November

Mr. Taft, who rules the nation,
Offers this, his proclamation:

Whereas, Providence continues
Blessing us from day to day,
And the boon of independence
Has, we take it, come to stay.

And whereas, Indulgent Nature Lavishes upon us still Bounty in excess of what the Weather and the bugs can kill,

And whereas, The old republic
Couldn't be improved upon,
Notwithstanding everybody Gets to run it off and on;

Therefore, I, as delegated
Now and for a short time hence
President, decree that turkey Shall go up to 20 cents

That's about all there is to it. Once the country raised its own, and the White House proclamation was not greeted with a groan. Father simply grabbed the hatchet, mother got the water hot, father read the proclamation to the turkeys in the lot, all the young and female turkeys promptly fainted from the shock, and after due farewells the gobbler laid his head
upon the block.

No one telephoned the butcher, asking what a turkey cost. No one in his deep resentment wished the Pilgrims had been lost. No one, while the feast proceeded, knew the turkey of the rack figuring upon his napkin what the day had set him back.

Everybody was provided, as the founders pre-supposed. No one can be very thankful, if the truth should be disclosed, paying what we pay for turkey, and, for all of Heaven's gifts, feeling that the day was founded for the Armours and the Swifts.

November gets its name from the Latin novem (nine), and was originally the ninth month of the year.
This brought Thanksgiving around two months earlier than we have it now, and it became very unpopular.
The insurgents, who constituted a majority in the agricultural districts, were bitterly opposed to it. They made two contentions: First, that young turkeys were not old enough to market; second, that crops had not progressed to the point where it was possible to make out whether there was anything to be thankful for or not. In 713 B. C. the storm broke.
The insurgents carried Gaul, Britannia and 17 other doubtful states, and the Forum immediately assembled and made November the eleventh month of the year.

The festive coat will sniff the air and don his heavy underhair, and the frenzied candidate will jump and hop around upon the stump. He'll point with pride and view with fear,
and suck and blow the atmosphere,
and then, together with his cult,
await with prayer the result.

Does reason haply hold its sway, or is it madness for a day will tell the people what to think and put the country on the blink? One cannot tell, but must abide the count that sees him justified in courage, confidence or doubt, according as it may turn out.

One thing alone is sure, it seems,
and that is this: No one esteems a patriot in politics. We only trust him while he sticks to war, with all its thrill and throb. The moment that he wants a job somewhat conspicuous for pay, by Jove! we don't know what to say.

But whether we do ill or well, election day alone can tell, or whether love for us and fear did any good, will then appear. We have to judge men as we may, and where the candidates all say about the same thing in the end, one scarcely knows who is a friend.

At any rate the snow will fly, and the wild duck spin across the sky with both eyes focused on the ground, and his tail-piece going round and round. The eager hunter will deploy and supplement the live decoy, and the pneumococcus, while he toots, will perforate his rubber boots.

A little shooting now and then is relished by a lot of men. They like to gallivant about and let the farmers run them out. It does them good to feel, by jing, that Morgan don't own everything, and if he came in consequence, and also tried to climb the fence, together with his dog and gun, he, too, would also get the run.

November will be unusual this year for the reason that there will be no full moon. This is because there

The Service that Never Sleeps

Bell Telephone Service never takes a rest or a holiday. It is on duty all the time and everywhere.

Whether as a carrier of business or social messages during the day, or for any emergency call through the night, it is always ready.

With the lifting of any Bell Telephone receiver, night or day, the operator's response is almost simultaneous—a fact which in itself assures you that the wires are open to you—that no matter how far you wish to send your spoken message, the entire Bell system is awake, on the alert, and at your service.

With the added advantage that the Bell System goes farther and reaches more people than any other telephone system.

The universal service—the always reliable service—the standard service.

will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of the 16th, when it would otherwise be full. This eclipse will be visible in the United States and in Wall Street, and it will send bacon down a couple of points.

The breath of Winter will distill upon the outer window sill, and the chilling calf will hump his back and burrow deeper in the stack. The hired man, with wintry spurts, will put on both his undershirts, and the plutocrat who sells us coals will pry
our bodies from our souls.

Then let us all embrace the chance and be as merry as we may, for whether we desire or dance, the fiddler is for all to pay. The gentry autumn time will pass, the cotton-tail will kill his hogs, the cotton-tail will weave the grass around the obfuscated dogs, the honking goose will ride
the heights with that weird hollering
of his, and the wolf will sit around o' nights and tell the moon how thin he is.

O woe is us that could enjoy the autumn time for aye and aye, and what with growing soul employ its witchery from day to day. The phosphorescence in the sky, the quail soft-piping on the hill, the blackbirds ever bobbing by, and the wind soft-sighing where it will.

But happiness can never last, as Antony could comprehend, and holding Cleo to him fast, destroyed himself before the end. The summer cometh after spring, and winter, merciless withal, as truly must succeed
the sweet and gentle blandishments of fall.

At any rate, upon a day
Deciphered in the almanacs,
December, desolate and gray,
Will come to whistle through the cracks.

A HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE

To be really valuable must show
equally good results from each member of the family using it. Foley's Honey and Tar does just this.
Whether for children or grown persons Foley's Honey and Tar is best and safest for all coughs and colds.
Ed. D. Heckerman.

Children's Spectacles

They must be kept scrupulously clean. The eyes are easily strained by trying to look through dimmed glasses.

Dust and perspiration soon accumulate so that the spectacles should be taken off two or three times a day and polished.

The children should be taught to form this habit themselves, so that they will think of it without being told.

Sometimes the glasses look greasy
and will not polish.

In this case rub them with a little methylated spirits, then polish them with chamol leather.

Mr. Otto Paul, Milwaukee, Wis., says Foley's Honey and Tar is still more than the best. He writes us,
"All those that bought it think it is the best for coughs and colds they ever had and I think it is still more than the best. Our baby had a bad cold and it cured him in one day.
Please accept thanks." Ed. D. Heckerman.

Lesson VI.—Fourth Quarter, For
Nov. 6, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxvi, 17-30.
Memory Verses, 26-28—Golden Text, Luke xxii, 19—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson, entitled "The Last Supper," is recorded by Mark and Luke as well as by Matthew, and there is a long portion recorded by John only (chapters xiii to xvii, inclusive). It is easy to read it. How often we have done so, but who can understand it?
Only by the Spirit can we in any measure grasp a little of its significance.
May each one of us have a special anointing to read, to write, to meditate, to teach, and may the Spirit have full control of us, that Jesus Christ may be glorified. Luke says that He sent Peter and John, saying, "Go and prepare us the Passover, that we may eat." Then they asked Him, "Where wilt thou that we prepare?" To which He replied that they were to follow a man whom they would meet, in the city bearing a pitcher of water, and by him they would find the furnished upper room. They found as He had said and made ready the Passover.
With the "Where wilt thou?" of this lesson I have in mind the "What wilt thou?" of Acts ix, 6, with Prov. iii, 5, 6, and its "Trust—lean not—acknowledge
—He shall direct." We cannot learn the way of peace and His guidance in all things until we have learned that we of ourselves know nothing and can do nothing. Then see what simple, ordinary things He uses—a man, a pitcher of water and, away back in the story, a shepherd's rod, a dream many a time, a barley cake,
the dew, a vine, a fig tree, a gourd,
a worm, a hen and chickens, sparrows, anything? If there seems to be delay in guidance He is saying, "My time is not yet," but in due time He will say, "My time is at hand."

When evening came He sat down with the twelve and spake of His great desire for this time, but that He would never again eat the Passover with them nor drink of the fruit of the vine till the kingdom of God should come (Luke xxii, 15-18), thus pointing to a future fulfillment of the Passover, when the deliverance of Israel from all nations would so far exceed the deliverance from Egypt that the deliverance under Moses would not seem worth mentioning in comparison (Jer. xxiii, 7, 8). Then followed, still between verses 20 and 21 of our lesson, the washing of their feet, with its great lesson of humility. Those who think that He taught only literal foot washing should consider His words to Peter, "If I wash thee not thou hast no part with me" (John xiii, 8). He washed the feet of Judas as well as of the others, yet Judas had no part with Him, and He said concerning him,
"It had been good for that man if he had not been born" (verse 24). If the wicked are to be annihilated, as some teach, there is no force in this saying of Jesus. Some time during the feast Jesus indicated Judas as His betrayer by dipping a sop and handing it to him. Satan having then entered into Judas, Jesus said to him, "That thou doest do quickly," and he went out immediately, and it was night (John xiii, 26-30). It has been night with him ever since, and there is no morning for him (Isa. viii, 20, R. V.).

The Passover being ended and Judas having gone out to do his devilish
work, our Lord took bread, blessed, broke and gave to the disciples and said, "Take, eat; this is My body." Then He took the cup and gave thanks and gave it to them, saying, "Drink ye all of it, for this is My blood of the New Testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins." Then He added a word about not drinking it henceforth till the kingdom comes (verses 26-29). Paul in his statement of this says that Jesus added both in reference to the bread and the wine,
"This do in remembrance of Me," and he added, "For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup ye do show
the Lord's death till He come" (I Cor. xi, 23-26). Those who teach that He gave them His actual body and blood to eat and drink should explain how this could be while He sat there among them. Rather let us accept His own explanation in John vi, 47, 54, that eating His flesh and drinking His blood is just believing in Him, for overlasting life is the result in each case, and there are not two ways of obtaining this life. What we eat we receive into us and assimilate it, and it becomes part of our body. As we eat His words, which are spirit and life, we eat Himself, and He dwells in us (John vi, 63; Jer. xv, 16).

We cannot begin to consider in so brief a lesson all the words and events of that evening, but between verses 29 and 30 of our lesson we must think of the whole of John xiv and with verse 31 of that chapter compare verse 30 of our lesson. Remembering that John xiv is preceded by Peter's assurance of readiness to go with Jesus. How little we know ourselves! How well He knows us! And yet with all our vain boasting hear His "Let not your heart be troubled," as if He said, "You will find out what I know already, but do not think of yourself or be discouraged."

After verse 30 of our lesson we must think of the whole of John xv, xvi and xvii. Then in verse 31 hear His quon-tation from Zech. xiii, 7, and let the sword of that verse point you back to the sword of Gen. iii, 24, which must find a sacrifice, the antitype of Abel's lamb, if man would approach God.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and
should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order,
you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle
by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you
how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

HECKERMAN LETTER

In the Lumber District of Arkansas—Visits Louisiana.

Helena, Ark., November 1, 1910.
This town or city, as you wish to call it, has improved very much since my last visit here and today is putting on airs; they say that $1,000,000 have been expended in building and beautifying it during the past twelve months. It is rapidly assuming metropolitan proportions. The new Solomon sky scraper, Helena's tallest and most modern building, which was but very recently completed, is already filled with very desirable tenants. There are today 200 houses under contract and in course of construction, at prices ranging from $20,000 to $1,000.

Not long since Helena had a very destructive fire, all from a moving picture show. These buildings will all be replaced by up-to-date office buildings. This city has but one side. "Why?" I hear Will Pearson ask. Why because the great Mississippi River makes the other side, and taking this one fact into consideration speaks all the louder for the way the old town is improving. $80,000 is now being expended for the building of an immense levee in front of North Helena. With this new safeguard completed property values will enhance several hundred per cent. Already quite a number of small houses are in course of construction. This levee will keep the river out and thus save the flooding that this whole section of the city would get several times a year without its protection.

This is a great lumber market as well as cotton market and with cotton at its present price of 15 cents per pound for short staple and 27 cents for long staple, money flows about here like milk and honey.

I have now been in the State of Arkansas for ten days and am more than pleased with it. How I wish your many readers could see the great big rice fields on the big prairies of the state! Everyone who comes to the state and stays long enough to become acclimated, boasts of the climate and the state in general. Malaria is not nearly so bad as it was ten years ago, yet in many of the low places where water stands most of the time the residents eat quinine and calomel like sugar. If they let up for a few days they begin to ache and next thing they know they have a regular chill; so hard that many of them shake the buttons off their clothes.

These great swamps are being drained by large canals which carry the water off to the rivers, and the land so drained soon is cleared and sells at fifty plunks per acre. To build these canals some of them many miles long and large enough to float a canal boat, the farmers or landowners are each taxed according to the value of the land. Some planters own tracts of thousands and thousands of acres.

For several days I have been in the greatest lumber district of the state. Over about Camden and El Dorado and down as far as Rustin, La. The land lying between Camden and El Dorado is the poorest in the state and I should think that a kilder in traveling over it would surely have to carry a knapsack well filled with provisions. The sand is very deep and there is no clay bottom to hold the fertilizer that you may put on it, hence it all goes on down and down, no doubt getting to where the skat needs no claws, for the peas that have been sowed for hay are not over a couple inches high and the corn stalks are about as thick as your finger and from four to six feet apart, with a wee nubbin thereon.

The men that farm that section do not make five cents per day, I'll bet, yet they are happy and contented, knowing that they can go to either Camden or El Dorado, the two places being only 33 miles apart, and buy a glass of elegant Fort Bedford P-Nut butter for ten cents. They fully realize that to put a little of it on their corn bread makes a very rich bite and that it is so nourishing that they can work longer and stronger on this kind of feed than on anything else and it is so much cheaper; besides it tastes to good. Don't forget the name Fort Bedford.

Pine lumber is the product of the forests this way, the trees are very tall and are straight as an arrow. Much of this is exported. The large mills use band saws, thus saving quite a great deal of lumber in a year, as this saw cuts a very thin space. Did you ever see one run? I did not and write from what I have heard.

I am now at Rustin, La., a neat town of perhaps three thousand people. It has several cotton gins in full blast besides an oil mill giving employment to quite a number of people, but all these have a sickly color which I fear comes from the breathing of this malodorous air. The lumber has been used up and one as he goes along sees but little, if any, good lumber. My next stop will be Shreveport, La., a nice city of 30,000, but Dad is tired of this long trip and longs to be back among the hills of dear old Bedford.

Yours truly,
M. P. Heckerman.

A FAKE SCHEME EXPOSED

Unscrupulous Person Working the Farmers and Fruit Growers.

There is a fake scheme being worked in various parts of Pennsylvania, which Prof. H. A. Surface, State Zoologist, has exposed and is warning persons against. He has received many letters on this subject, the following of which is typical, coming from a correspondent in Collegeville: "A man came into this section, stating he was authorized by the state to treat trees affected by San Jose scale, by inserting a poison filled capsule under the bark of the tree. This poison was to be carried by the sap to all parts of the tree, and so kill the scale."

"Is this treatment effective in killing the scale without injuring the trees? I shall be very grateful for information on this subject."

In reply to this Professor Surface said: "His statements are false and his method is wrong. Several times unscrupulous persons have tried to gain the confidence and obtain money of the people of this state, by the statement that they are employed by the state or Department. All such impostors should be arrested for false pretense, and such other charges as can be brought against them, and such imposition can then be checked, even if they cannot wholly be stopped."

This office authorizes no persons to treat or destroy trees, excepting only regular appointed inspectors, who carry certificates of appointment, stamped with the seal of the Department of Agriculture and properly signed. Also, we do no work in treating trees, excepting that which is done as public demonstration work, inviting the public in to see how it is done, as a useful public lesson in the community. More than this, we do no other treatment of trees than the pruning and spraying, being assured that the best possible means of controlling the San Jose scale and certain other pests is by the use of the spray pump.

No poison can be put into the system of the tree by injecting it under the bark in such manner that it will be taken up through the sap. You will find the safest, cheapest and more effective means of treating the San Jose scale to be thoroughly spraying with strong boiled lime sulfur wash, applied at any time while the trees are dormant. If they are much infested you should make two applications, one just after the leaves drop, and another when the buds are swelling in the spring."

A GOOD POSITION
Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa.
